

CPC50210 Diploma of Building and Construction (Building)

Pathway to Builders Licence

Develop your business management skills and technical knowledge in the building and construction industry with this Diploma course. Together with the practical on the job skills, you will be equipped with an advanced level of knowledge to manage a team within residential or commercial small to medium-sized projects.

This qualification is suitable for anyone currently working in a construction environment.

CPC50210 Diploma of Building and Construction (Building)

How will undertaking this course benefit you?

The CPC50210 Diploma of Building and Construction (Building) onsite RPL course is designed to enable potential builders and others in the industry to be formally recognised for technical skills and knowledge already gained through industry related experiences by a process called Recognition of Prior Learning.

What is RPL?

Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) is an assessment pathway that has been designed to acknowledge your full range of skills and knowledge, regardless of how it has been acquired. This includes competencies gained through formal and informal study, work experience, employment and other life experiences.

Are there any entry requirements?

Participants should have a minimum of four years' experience working in a relevant role, and must hold a current Construction Induction (White) Card and/or a Statement of Attainment for the unit of competency CPCCOHS1001A Work Safely in the Construction Industry.

All participants must have a Unique Student Identifier (USI). To obtain yours, go to www.usi.gov.au and follow the prompts to create your USI.

How is it delivered?

Blended Delivery. A mix of both online and face to face learning.

What do I get from it?

Upon successful completion participants receive a Statement of Attainment for CPC50210 - Diploma of Building and Construction (Building).

What do I need to bring?

Participants are required to have access to the internet and a computer with a webcam.

Email your expression of interest to info@bot.edu.au and one of the team will be in touch.

